

DEATH ROLL

Sam Llewellyn

Martin Devereux has two loves: yacht racing, and the boatyard he runs with his elderly partner Henry. But someone is out to get him.

While mysterious accidents threaten his business Martin finds he is no longer in demand as a helmsman, and when Henry disappears his fears deepen. It takes a voyage to the Mediterranean to open Martin's eyes to a world of corruption where innocent lives are forfeit. Fighting to stay afloat in more ways than one, Martin must trust no one and risk all.

page 9

THE EVENING NEWS

Arthur Hailey

From the bestselling author of Airport and Strong Medicine comes this explosive novel set in the high-powered world of television news.

Here are the front-line men and women who risk their lives to film a story; the executives who mastermind the broadcasts; the celebrated CBA newsreader Crawford Sloane and top correspondent Harry Partridge. These two men pride themselves on their impartial reporting, until the day they are forced to take starring roles in their own desperate drama.

page 125

THE FLIGHT OF THE SWAN

Elizabeth Webster

For Laurie Collins, life's promises have turned sour. The charming man she married nine years ago is now a drunk and a frustrated failure. She and the family live in fear of his violent rages.

Then one day Laurie sees three dazzling white swans flying overhead. She suddenly remembers that beyond the mean London street where she lives, there is a world of nature, of beauty, of freedom. And she knows that she must find it, for herself and for her two small children.

page 267

TIEBREAKER

Jack M. Bickham

Danisa Lechova is the shining young star of Yugoslav tennis, dedicated, brilliant, and tirelessly trained by her devoted coach. But this beautiful girl is a wavering citizen of the Eastern bloc, wanted by both the KGB and the CIA, and jealously guarded by her ambitious family.

When American tennis champion and part-time agent Brad Smith is sent to Belgrade to help Danisa defect, he finds himself in very deep water. Not least because he's falling in love with his blue-eyed assignment . . .

page 391