

GREAT CIRCLE

Sam Llewellyn

The Great Circle race, with its route through the world's most dangerous seas, is yachting's ultimate challenge. The men and women crewing the boats must face a gruelling trial of courage and skill in which every one of them will be tested to breaking point—and some beyond.

Sam Llewellyn has created an unforgettable cast of competitors, whose feuds, friendships and rivalries are at the heart of this story: a thriller as exciting and unpredictable as the ocean itself.

page 9

CHICO THE SMALL ONE

Elizabeth Webster

When Tank Hammond, a skilled civil engineer, meets Chico, a boy from the slums of Bogota, the two strike up an unusual friendship. The diminutive Chico is fascinated by Tank's work; Tank, in turn, is inspired by the boy's simple faith, and resolves to help him to a new life. But first the two of them must make a perilous trek through the Andes to find Chico's home—and for Tank it becomes a decisive journey of self-discovery.

A heart-warming new novel from the author of A Boy Called Bracken.

page 195

THORNYHOLD

Mary Stewart

Gilly Ramsey is a young woman with an uncertain future—until she inherits Thornyhold. It's a beautiful old house, but eerie too. Strange dreams trouble Gilly after she moves in, and messages arrive from her dead godmother, Geillis . . . But as she begins to understand the secrets of Thornyhold she finds the prospect of a new life, and a new love, opening before her.

Mary Stewart has created a delightful twentieth-century romance, spiced with mystery—and just a little witchcraft.

page 331

DEATH TRAIN

Robert Byrne

As Mountain Pacific train 7661 pulls out of Sparks, Nevada in the middle of the night, only a few people know that its cargo includes a lethal nerve gas called Mannequin. Even fewer know that the train has been sabotaged, and could soon be spewing chaos and death along its route. Already one man has died. The fate of thousands more hangs in the balance unless the runaway train can be stopped in time.

From the popular author of Skyscraper comes a fast-paced story of nailbiting suspense.

page 415